GROUP STAGE

FINAL TABLES

KNOCKOUT STAGE

RONALDO
Portugal's Cristiano Ronaldo was the second highest European scorer in the big five leagues this season with 35 goals, behind Zlatan Ibrahimovic on 38

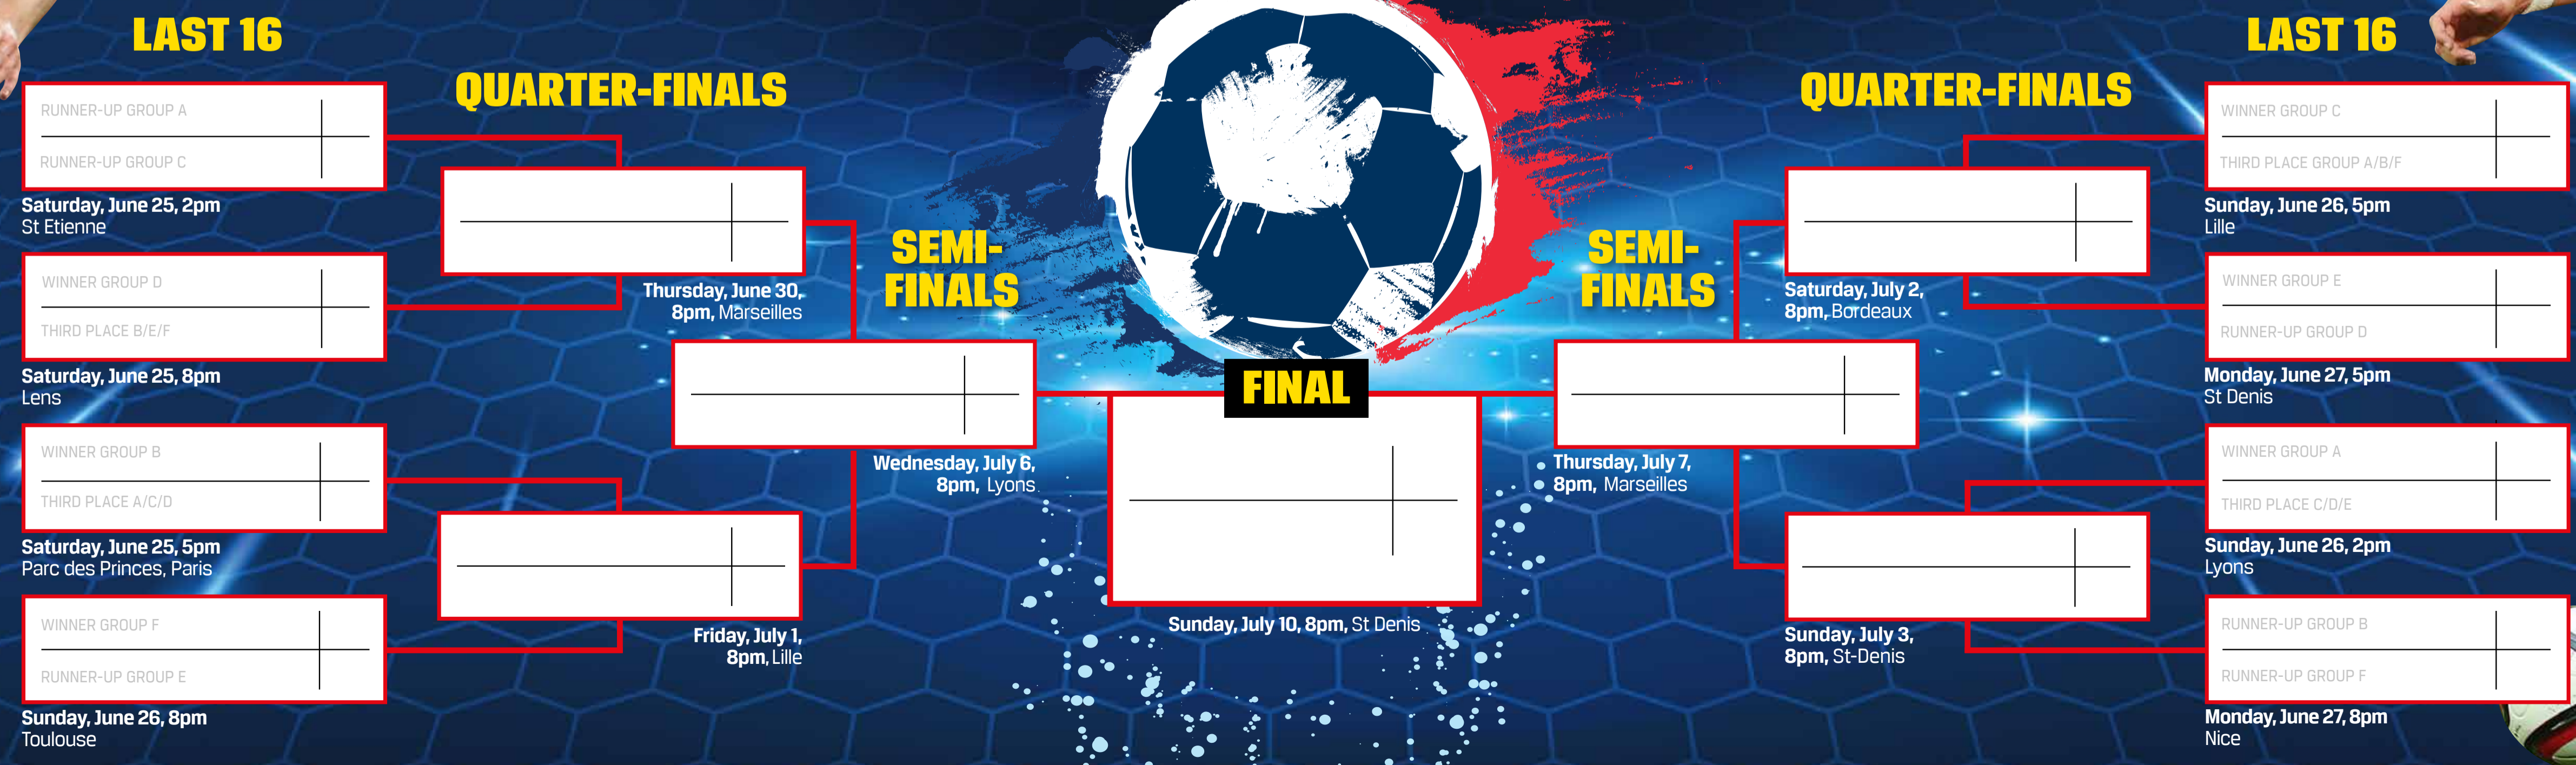

HAZARD
Eden Hazard, Belgium's joint top scorer in qualifying with Kevin De Bruyne, is one of 12 British-based players in his country's squad, more than half of the total

KANE
Harry Kane scored 25 Premier League goals, becoming the first English player to win the Premier League Golden Boot since Kevin Phillips 16 years ago

MARTIAL
Manchester United's 25th French striker, Anthony Martial was their only player to hit double figures for league goals this season (11 in total)

FABREGAS
Cesc Fabregas created chances in Euro 2016 qualifying more than any other Spanish player (26)

BALE
Gareth Bale was involved in 92 per cent of Wales' 11 goals in Euro 2016 qualifying (seven goals, two assists)

ON SUNDAY

STADIUM GUIDE & DAILY PLANNER

NICE
Stade de Nice, capacity 35,000
Has 4,000 solar panels, geothermal heating and a pitch sprinkler system using rainwater from the roof. Home to France's national sport museum.

LENS
Stade Bollaert-Delelis, capacity 35,000
David Beckham scored his first England goal here with a free-kick in a 2-0 win over Colombia at France 98, but a £50m refit means he would barely recognise it.

BORDEAUX
Stade de Bordeaux, capacity 42,000
Opened in May 2015 and designed by the architects behind Beijing's Bird's Nest, the exterior is supposed to resemble pine trees in the nearby Landes forest.

TOULOUSE
Stadium de Toulouse, capacity 33,000
Built for 1938 World Cup, it was called 'mini Wembley' before a revamp in 1998. City is much better known for its rugby than football heritage.

MARSEILLES
Stade Vélodrome, capacity 67,000
Semi-finals of two World Cups and two Euro semi-finals have been staged here, but the £200m new roof left the city council heavily in debt.

LILLE
Stade Pierre Mauroy, capacity 50,000
Host to a Davis Cup final, the French rugby team, basketball and Rihanna but not yet international football. It has a sliding roof, and pitch that can fold in half.

LYONS
Stade de Lyon, capacity 59,000
The first football stadium privately owned by a French club, but expensive at £181m. It officially opened in January after local opposition delayed building.

ST ETIENNE
Stade Geoffroy-Guichard, cap 42,000
Infamous for England fans as the venue for the country's France 98 exit when David Beckham was sent off in a defeat by Argentina on penalties.

PARIS ST DENIS
Stade de France, capacity 80,000
Built for the 1998 World Cup, it is the only stadium to have also hosted a Rugby World Cup final. A target in last November's terrorist attacks.

PARIS
Parc des Princes, capacity 45,000
Venue for the first European Cup final, won by Real Madrid in 1956, but refitted twice since it was built in 1897. Tenants PSG want to expand to 60,000 seats.
